Partner, Employment Law Department
elenabaca@paulhastings.com

Elena Baca is the Global Chair of the Paul Hastings Employment Law Department, and leads a diverse group of more than 100 lawyers in 14 offices around the world. Ms. Baca is recognized as a leading trial lawyer by many noted publications. She has been consistently ranked by Chambers USA and the Legal 500 as one of the top employment defense lawyers in California. Chambers USA has noted that her “litigation track record and outstanding trial victories stand out in the legal marketplace, due to both her sheer volume of wins and the ways in which these decisions are helping to shape future employment and labor law, particularly in California.” Clients have referred to her as “second to none.” Ms. Baca also has been selected continuously since 2006 as one of the Best Lawyers in America in employment law. She has repeatedly been named as one of California’s “Top Women Lawyers” and as one of California’s “Top Labor and Employment Attorneys” by the Los Angeles Daily Journal. The American Lawyer also recognized her in its “Top 45 Under 45” list. An experienced trial lawyer, Ms. Baca has established an impressive record of defense verdicts and arbitration wins representing a wide variety of corporate clients. Her litigation practice is primarily focused on employment related issues, such as employee mobility, wage and hour, and whistleblower issues. She is considered a “go-to” employment lawyer for many large employers with high-profile disputes involving high-level executives and contentious high-stakes litigation (including class action claims). Ms. Baca is frequently called upon to turn around cases that have been mishandled by other law firms and take them to trial. Her clients include talent agencies, entertainment companies, web-based services, financial institutions, medical technology and research companies, law firms, public utilities, major manufacturers, and leading consumer brands.

California Labor Code. After months of briefing and limiting the issues, the case proceeded to trial. The jury returned a unanimous verdict in favor of Dollar Tree in under an hour.

- Flexera Software-Represented Flexera Software when a former employee initiated a putative class action claiming millions of dollars in damages. Through a motion to compel arbitration, the class claims were eliminated. Next, through forensics it was determined the plaintiff had destroyed evidence, stolen company information, and fraudulently altered a key document. A cross-complaint was filed. In the middle of the arbitration hearing, during the plaintiff's cross examination, the plaintiff abandoned his claims.
- Staffing Networks-Represented Staffing Networks against putative Private Attorney General Act ("PAGA") action seeking many millions of dollars in penalties for alleged wage statement violations. When an opportunity was presented by a recent PAGA amendment, the alleged violation was cured, thereby mooting the claims. Plaintiff's counsel argued the claims, which were filed before the amendment, could continue. Through a number of procedural turns, in two different counties, the case was finally won when summary judgment was entered in the Staffing Networks' favor.
- American Apparel - Represented American Apparel in its defense against legal proceedings filed or instigated by its former CEO, Dov Charney. Recently, when Charney sued American Apparel and its Board Chair for defamation, Ms. Baca immediately filed a successful motion to dismiss and secured an award against Charney for more than $100,000 in attorneys' fees. Ms. Baca is also representing American Apparel in its defense against Charney's arbitration demand seeking more than $20,000,000 for his alleged wrongful termination (currently stayed).
- Lockheed Martin - Represented Lockheed Martin in a disability discrimination and wrongful termination matter. After the jury returned a defense verdict in less than 20 minutes, plaintiffs appealed. The higher court affirmed, but for the claims the trial court had dismissed without sending them to the jury, which went back to the jury. Plaintiff retained new counsel and the case was tried anew with changed theories from opposing counsel. Again, the jury returned a defense verdict within minutes.
- UPS - Represented UPS in more than 54 individual cases stemming from a successfully decertified class action alleging misclassification and meal and rest break violations. During an eight-year battle with a potential liability in the 8-9 figure range, oversaw all individual cases which resulted in 16 wins, 38 walk-aways, and defense attorney fees in 5 of the cases.
- AIG - Represented an insurer facing a novel misclassification claim, related to hearing officers. Rather than await the plaintiff's move, Ms. Baca elected the novel strategy of bringing a preemptive motion to deny class certification. The trial court granted the motion. Ms. Baca then immediately moved for summary judgment and successfully defended the ruling on appeal.
